Fair Processing of Data

Data Protection principles

In processing staff members' data the following principles will be adhered to. Personal data will be:

- Used lawfully, fairly and in a transparent way;
- Collected only for valid purposes that are clearly explained and not used in any way that is incompatible with those purposes;
- Relevant to specific purposes and limited only to those purposes;
- Accurate and kept up to date;
- Kept only as long as necessary for the specified purposes; and
- Kept securely.

Lawful processing of personal data

Personal information will only be processed when there is a lawful basis for doing so. Most commonly, Ark will use personal information in the following circumstances:

- when it is needed to perform staff members' contracts of employment;
- when it is needed to comply with a legal obligation; or
- when it is necessary for Ark's legitimate interests (or those of a third party) and staff members' interests and fundamental rights do not override those interests.

We will use your information for:

- Administration of contracts of employment
- Payment of salaries
- Recruitment and selection
- Pensions and associated benefits
- Appraisal, training and development
- Membership of professional bodies
- The administration of formal processes such as grievance or disciplinary, and relevant business processes such as maintaining business continuity contacts lists
- Ensuring that we comply with relevant legal obligations, such as when we require to request a reference in relation to a prospective employee, or make a referral to a regulator such as the SSSC; and
- Ensuring that we comply with best practice guidance, and insurers' requirements, in relation to retention of records, in accordance with Ark's legitimate interests

Ark may also use personal information in the following situations, which are likely to be rare:

- when it is necessary to protect staff members' interests (or someone else's interests); or
- when it is necessary in the public interest [or for official purposes.

The lawful bases we may further rely on include:

- Consent: where you have given us clear consent for us to process your personal information for a specific purpose. This will only apply in limited circumstances where we have clearly asked for your consent;
- Contract: where our use of your personal information is necessary for a contract we have with you, or because you have asked us to take specific steps before entering into a contract. This includes where you apply for housing and in order to enter into and perform your tenancy agreement;
- Legal obligation: where our use of your personal information is necessary for us to comply with the law. This includes our regulatory obligations, such as those imposed on us by the Scottish Housing Regulator;
- Vital interests: where our use of your personal information is necessary to protect you or someone else's life;
- Public task: where our use of your personal information is necessary for us to perform a task in the public interest or for our official functions and the task or function has a clear basis in law. This may apply to our public functions as a registered social landlord; and
- Legitimate interests: where our use of your personal information is necessary for our legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of a third party (unless there is a good reason to protect your personal information which overrides our legitimate interests).

Lawful processing of sensitive personal data

Some of the personal data that we process in relation to you is called 'special category personal data'. This type of data is more sensitive and therefore needs more protection including an additional legal basis. We process special category data, as relevant, in relation to gender, health and ethnic origin. We process this data so that we can carry out the obligations and exercise specific rights of the controller in the field of employment in so far as it is authorised by domestic law

We may also process special categories of personal information in the following circumstances:

- In limited circumstances, with explicit written consent;
- in order to meet legal obligations;
- when it is needed in the public interest, such as for equal opportunities monitoring [or
- when it is needed to assess working capacity on health grounds, subject to appropriate confidentiality safeguards.

Less commonly, Ark may process this type of information where it is needed in relation to legal claims or where it is needed to protect a staff member's interests (or someone else's interests) and the staff member is not capable of giving consent, or where a staff member has already made the information public. Ark may use particularly sensitive personal information in the following ways:

- information relating to leaves of absence, which may include sickness absence or family related leaves, may be used to comply with employment and other laws;
- information about staff members' physical or mental health, or disability status, may be used to ensure health and safety in the workplace and to assess fitness to work, to provide appropriate workplace adjustments, to monitor and manage sickness absence and to administer benefits;
- information about race or national or ethnic origin, religious, philosophical or moral beliefs, or sexual life or sexual orientation, may be used to ensure meaningful equal opportunity monitoring and reporting; and
- information about trade union membership may be used to pay trade union premiums, register the status of a protected staff member and to comply with employment law obligations.

Lawful processing of information about criminal convictions

Ark envisages that it will hold information about criminal convictions. Ark will only use this information where it has a legal basis for processing the information. This will usually be where such processing is necessary to carry out Ark's obligations. Less commonly, Ark may use information relating to criminal convictions where it is necessary in relation to legal claims, where it is necessary to protect a staff member's interests (or someone else's interests) and the staff member is not capable of giving consent, or where the staff member has already made the information public.

Ark will only collect information about criminal convictions if it is appropriate given the nature of the role and where it is legally able to do so. Where appropriate, Ark will collect information about criminal convictions as part of the recruitment process or may require staff members to disclose information about criminal convictions during the course of employment.

Consent to data processing

Ark does not require consent from staff members to process most types of staff member data. In addition, Ark will not usually need consent to use special categories of personal information in order to carry out legal obligations or exercise specific rights in the field of employment law. If a staff member fails to provide certain information when requested, Ark may not be able to perform the contract entered into with the staff member (such as paying the staff member or providing a benefit). Ark may also be prevented from complying with legal obligations (such as to ensure the health and safety of staff members).

In limited circumstances, for example, if a medical report is sought for the purposes of managing sickness absence, staff members may be asked for written consent to process sensitive data. In those circumstances, staff members will be provided with full details of the information that sought and the reason it is needed, so that staff members can carefully consider whether to consent. It is not a condition of staff members' contracts that staff members agree to any request for consent.

Where staff members have provided consent to the collection, processing and transfer of personal information for a specific purpose, they have the right to withdraw consent for that specific processing at any time. Once Ark has received notification of withdrawal of consent it will no longer process information for the purpose or purposes originally agreed to, unless it has another legitimate basis for doing so in law.

Automated decision making

Automated decision-making takes place when an electronic system uses personal information to make a decision without human intervention.

Ark may use automated decision-making in the following circumstances:

- Where staff members have been notified and given 21 days to request a reconsideration.
- Where it is necessary to perform a contract and appropriate measures are in place to safeguard staff members' rights.
- In limited circumstances, with staff members' explicit written consent and where appropriate measures are in place to safeguard staff member rights.

If Ark makes an automated decision on the basis of any particularly sensitive personal information, staff members will be asked for explicit written consent unless processing is justified in the public interest. Ark will put in place appropriate measures to safeguard staff member rights. Staff members will not be subject to decisions that will have a significant impact based solely on automated decision-making, unless Ark has a lawful basis for doing so and has given staff members prior notification.

Any requests received by us will be considered under applicable data protection legislation. Please note that, depending on the nature of the request, Ark may have good grounds for refusing to comply. If that is the case, the staff member will be given an explanation by Ark.

Data subject access requests

Staff members will not normally have to pay a fee to access personal information (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, Ark may charge a reasonable fee if the request for access is clearly unfounded or excessive. Alternatively, Ark may refuse to comply with the request in such circumstances.

Ark may need to request specific information from the staff member to help confirm their identity and ensure the right to access the information (or to exercise any of the other rights). This is another appropriate security measure to ensure that personal information is not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it.

If staff members have any questions about this policy or how Ark handles personal information, they should contact the Data Protection Lead. Staff members may use personal equipment to carry out work but must ensure that devices are password protected, locked when not in use and must not store any staff member or third party personal data locally on their device.
